Introduction

Section 23 of the Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 requires that all Scottish public authorities maintain a publication scheme. Publication schemes are high level, strategic documents in which a public authority commits to making published information available to the general public. This ensures that information held by authorities is open, accountable and transparent at all times.

The Council has adopted the Scottish Information Commissioner's "model scheme" and this is available at:

Information Exempt from Disclosure

Sometimes we may not be able to provide certain information which is described in the scheme.

This may be an entire file, a document, or just parts of a document (for example, minutes of meetings might be published, but with personal information 'blacked out'). Information will only be withheld, however, where FoISA or EIR expressly permits it.

Examples of exempt information are where its disclosure would breach the law of confidentiality, harm an organisation's commercial interests, or endanger the protection of the environment. Information may also be withheld if it is someone's personal information and its release would breach data protection legislation.

Whenever information is withheld we will inform you of this, and will set out why that information cannot be released, and you will be notified of your right to ask for a review. Even where information is withheld it may, in many cases, be possible to provide copies with the withheld information edited out.

Copyright

East Renfrewshire Council holds the copyright for the vast majority of information in this publication scheme. All of this information can be copied or reproduced (but not re-used) without our formal permission, provided it is copied or reproduced accurately, is not used in a misleading context, and provided that the source of the material is identified.

The publication scheme may however contain information where the copyright holder is not the Council. In most cases the copyright holder will be obvious from the documents. In cases where the copyright is unclear, however, it is the responsibility of the person accessing the information to locate and seek the permission of the copyright holder before reproducing the material or in any other way breaching the rights of the copyright holder.

Access to the information does not mean that copyright has been waived, nor does it give the recipient the right to re-use the information for a commercial purpose. If you intend to re-use information obtained from the scheme, and you are unsure whether you have the right to do so, you are advised to make a request to the Council to re-use the information.

Feedback

FOISA requires that we review our publication scheme from time to time. As a result, we welcome feedback on how we can develop our scheme further. If you would like to comment on any aspect of this publication scheme, or on FOI more generally, then please contact us.
